

The All Night Star Party

BBC2, 11.20pm

Mars is at its closest to Earth for 60,000 years and to celebrate this, and National Astronomy Week, Sophie Raworth goes star-gazing. She is at Jodrell Bank, home of the Lovell radio telescope, which could detect a mobile phone 220 million miles away. Images are also beamed in from a telescope on the edge of a volcano in the Canaries.

Media

The Mail on Sunday: Night & Day

Date: 17/08/2003

Type: General Consumer

Frequency: 52/Per year

Circulation: 2,330,043 (ABC)

MediaDisk Ref: 65B-5

National Publication